

Thank You

What a blessing great interns are for our youth and entire church family. Hannah Beth Pearson and Kyler Wilson have performed masterfully this summer. The environment was certainly not what they expected. Their time with us is winding down and we want to express our great appreciation to them both for the service they offer the kingdom. May God bless you as you labor for him daily. Thanks for being so faithful to help build spiritual formation in our youth. You are great ambassadors for Christ and our church family.

Intern Insights

This summer has been crazy for all of us I'm sure. I can definitely say it's been crazy for me. I've wanted to be the youth group intern ever since I was in the youth group, and now that I finally get the position, we miss out on most of our events this summer due to things out of our control.

At first when I learned we couldn't do as much this summer, I was very disappointed, as I've been looking forward to this for so many years. However, I started to realize that my plan doesn't really matter, as it is all up to God. I had a completely different view of how this year was going to go, but God had another idea. Now that the summer is almost over, I can say that this change of plans has had its good things too. I feel as if this summer has greatly humbled me into realizing that not all of my plans will work out, but that's not the end of the world. We have still had fun in the youth group, and even if we weren't at church camp or serving on a mission trip, I still feel like this summer has allowed me to get a lot closer to the kids than I ever have been (while still being at least six feet apart, of course.)

In the long run, this world isn't even our home, so of course not all of our worldly plans are going to work out. If some of my plans have to change in order for God's plan to work out, then that's fine with me. I still had fun going with what God wanted anyways. So thank you God, for the crazy, chaotic summer. Hopefully the next one won't be as crazy and chaotic, but if it is, I'm sure we can all make the best of it knowing it's what God wants.
