Worship Without Ceasing - by Pat Hall

I'm not sure if you know this about me but music is a HUGE part of my life. It always has been. You can probably tell with anything I do, I typically use a song to illustrate my point. I have gone through many phases of music genres in my life. Whether it be hard rock, country, rap, classic rock, grunge, folk, I've listened to them all, extensively. I went through a time where I would listen to all music except contemporary Christian. I had a friend in college ask me one time to listen to the new Stephen Curtis Chapman tape he had and I said "I don't listen to that stuff". "I don't listen to that stuff"? What an idiot! I was listening to the likes of Sir Mix a Lot and Prince, but wouldn't listen to music that's sole purpose was to glorify God, all because it had instruments...

I did not get into any sort of instrumental worship music until one day Zach, Erin, and I were driving around and a song was playing and Zach asked "Daddy, do we say that"? A song had said something inappropriate and he knew it. From that point on we only listened to local Christian stations. After a while I became a big fan and have listened to it ever since. Most music I am a melody guy, when it comes to Christian music, I am all about the lyrics. The best part of having Christian music at the ready is that at a moment's notice you just worship. Any place, any time just worship! With my job I am in a position that I do a lot of work by myself and with phones able to play music and using earbuds I have the opportunity to listen to music on a lot of occasions. Listening to wholesome Christian music is really good for my ADD brain because it keeps my mind from wandering and bad thoughts from coming in. So I get to worship while working. I get to listen to Mercy Me, Casting Crowns, Acapella, Hallal, The Zoe Group (so I do throw some aca-pella music in there), Lauren Dagle, Lacreia, Forrest Frank, Tadashi, all of them. So no matter what style of music you like, I bet there is a pretty good Christian version of it out there.

So when you get in your car to go on your next excursion, look at the radio and see what station it is on, is it one that you can get your worship on with or is it something you don't typically listen to on Sunday's? Sunday's are not the only day we need to worship. Worship without ceasing!
